

In the spotlight....

Q. What is your role at Method?

A. Engineer

Q. What does a typical day look like for you?

A. Most days involve responding to incoming emails, design and calculations for new project designs and carrying out site inspections and progress meetings.

Q. What is the favorite part about working for Method?

A. The atmosphere within the company. Everyone is hardworking but also enjoys socialising with the rest of the team, which I believe is an important part of a successful company.

Q. Three words to describe Method?

A. Simply the best

Q. What drew you to Method originally? And how has Method changed since?

A. I was drawn to Method after completing university, they were a local company and I agreed with their company philosophy on sustainability in construction. The company has since expanded and opened a Bristol office but still maintains the same design principles.

Q. What has been your favorite project at Method?

A. My favourite projects are usually due to the project team. If you're working with a design team and Contractor that maintain a good relationship it usually ends up completing as a successful project for the client, as the team works together to solve any issues that arise as opposed to pointing fingers.

Q. If you could switch your job with anyone else within Method, whose job would you want?

A. I think all the roles within the company come with challenges and rewards. Perhaps I would enjoy a larger role in business development, as I enjoy communicating with people and I'm keen to see the company succeed; however, I still enjoy the design element of my current role.

Q. Before working at Method, what was the most unusual or interesting job you've ever had?

A. At one point I had to work for a week as a tour guide in London for a company based in China that my friend worked for. As I didn't live in London, I spent the week leading up to it learning facts and routes to take the travelling businessmen. The worst part was on the London eye where I was asked the names of various buildings that were visible from the highest point on the wheel, I ended up going with "Well, that's obviously the building that's next to the Shard" and then just rattled off random facts about other buildings that I knew.

Q. What would you do (for a career) if you weren't doing this?

A. Tour guide in London. No, I would try and work in a sport related job.

Q. What advice do you have for prospective Method candidates?

A. Don't be afraid to get involved with the many social and sporting activities that the company offers, as this is a great way to get to know other employees outside of the office.

and the fun questions!

Q. Any random facts you could share with us?

A. I'm a big fan of musicals, there have been many occasions where 'Defying Gravity' has been belted out whilst driving. They'll never bring me down..

Q. Do you have an office nickname? What is it?

A. The leader, I have no idea why everyone calls me that..

Q. If Hollywood made a movie about your life, who would you like to see cast as you?

A. Arnold Schwarzenegger in his prime, obviously for his incredible acting ability.

Q. What is the worst thing you did as a kid?

A. Put my bag on someone else's hook at school, I was a rule breaker through and through.

Q. Would you rather be a tiny elephant or a giant hamster?

A. Giant Hamster, as you would rule the animal kingdom but still sound hilarious.
